1. When a District Prosecuting Attorney is informed that a person from his district has left Czechoslovakia illegally or has been apprehended trying to flee the country, he makes out for that person two "U-cards", an original and one copy. The "U-cards" are large, unfolded, reddish-brown index cards; they are classified "Top Secret" and are kept in individual folders.
  2. On the "U-cards" are entered the results of the trial or criminal investigation of the offender, the names of all relatives living in Czechoslovakia to the degree of cousins, and the names of all relatives living abroad. It is believed that the District Prosecuting Attorney makes these entries. Other entries are probably made by the STB. At the conclusion of the trial or investigation, the District Prosecuting Attorney sends the original "U-card" to the County Prosecutor, who passes it directly to the Ministry of National Security. The copy of the "U-card", it is believed, is sent to the Ministry of Justice or to the Office of the Attorney General.
  3. It is not known what use is to be made of the "U-cards"; it is probable, however, that they are to serve as a registration of the refugee and his relatives, who are also considered politically unreliable.
